IS WORST STORM IN HISTORY

Five Persons Reported Killed In the New York Blizzard

ALL TRAFFIC TIED UP

And But Few Trains are Leaving for West and South—Telegraph Wires are Down and Wireless is Out of Commission.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, March 2.—Points as far west as Cleveland, as for south as Baltimore, were battered by a wind that stung in steel, and buried in snow in a terrific storm, central over the city of New York and New Jersey, which began early yesterday and was still in progress. In New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania between 8 and 11 inches of snow, layers of it piled hard and frozen, covered the ground at noon and was still falling.

Not in 15 years in greater New York and environs experienced such a storm. At times the velocity of the wind reached 84 miles an hour. Eight deaths were reported here.

Traffic everywhere in the storm area was demoralized in some cases interrupted entirely.

Hundreds of telegraph poles in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania were carried down. Eighty-five thousand commuters on Long Island were marooned and residents of New Jersey comit to the city were from one to five hours late.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, March 2.—Under the third blanket of snow in many weeks, New York and vicinity today are suffering from one of the worst storms in its history. Five persons have been killed, so far as reported, railroad traffic is tied up and wire communication crippled. Streets and sidewalks are covered with an icy coating, making walking difficult and dangerous and vehicular traffic is almost impossible.

Few trains are leaving today over any of the main trunklines for the west and south, and street car and elevated traffic in the city and suburbs is lame and in some instances suspended. Not since the blizzard of 1888, which old residents point to as the worst in the history of the city, has a storm resulted in so much suffering. A milk famine as the most feared today because of the suspended train service in New York and New Jersey state.

Nine and one half inches of snow fell yesterday, and when it stopped, a howling gale set in. The temperature, which had remained at a few degrees above freezing, dropped many degrees, freezing the slush and snow that covered the streets.

With only fifty per cent. of the snow from the two previous storms removed from the principal streets, the city street cleaning department faced a new problem today. Already $80,000 have been spent in snow removal work and city officials were unable to make an estimate of the probable cost of the latest storm.

With its telegraph wire down, signals crippled and tracks lifted high with snow, the Pennsylvania railroad made no attempt to run a train out of New York after 7 o'clock last night and all incoming trains from the west and south arrived from ten to eleven hours late. A local train from Atlantic City arrived at 4:30 o'clock this morning, seven hours and 53 minutes late. The conductor reported that the storm was still raging along the coast and that the snow was drifting badly.

In the Pennsylvania station forty sleeping cars remained on the tracks all night. In them were 800 passengers, many of whom slept peacefully, ignorant that they were not on their way to their destinations. In the waiting rooms were hundreds of persons waiting for the resumption of traffic. Lunchrooms and dining halls were kept open all night for their accommodations. Trains on the New York Central lines fared but little better. Points up-state could not be reached by wire early today and the whereabouts of several incoming mail and passenger trains could not be learned. Among other trains reported lost was the Twentieth Century Limited. Between Peekskill and Cold Springs, a distance of about eleven miles, thirty broken telegraph poles are down. Albany and Buffalo were out of communication and New York Central trains between those points were reported lost.

The storm put nearly every wireless station along the coast before a bout out of commission and after 6 o'clock last night communication with ships at sea was impossible. The aerials of the station were so crippled with sleet and snow as to render them useless.

MEN WHO WILL BE ADVOCATE CONTEST JUDGES

JUDGE T. B. FULTON

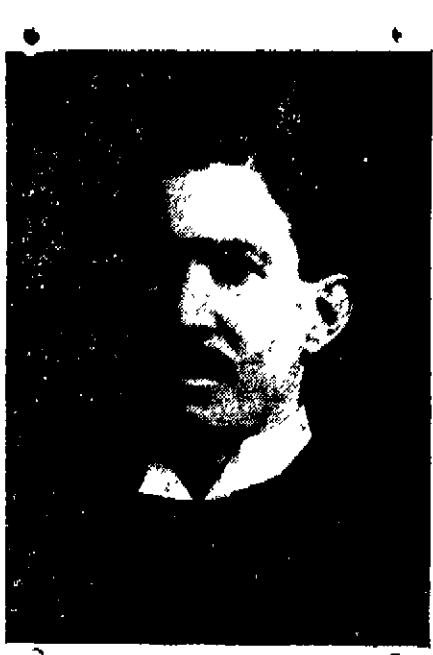

WILLIAM M. MORGAN

HON. EDWARD KIBLER

PROF. C. L. WILLIAMS

SUPT. WILSON HAWKINS.

It is with no little pride that the Advocate introduces to its readers the five men who will be the judges in the Booklovers' Contest recently started in this newspaper. These men need no introduction to the public, the simple announcement of their names being sufficient. Each name is the synonym of honor and integrity. The selection of Judge Thomas B. Fulton is common pleas judge of Licking, Delaware and Knox counties—three of the eight counties included in the big contest. Judge Fulton before his election to the bench successfully practiced law in Newark with his brother, Representative W. D. Fulton. Another brother Dr. Fulton lives in Mt. Vernon.

Professor Wilson Hawkins is the Superintendent of the Newark Public Schools. He has a reputation over the state as one of Ohio's leading educators. The Newark schools have made great progress under his direction.

Hon. Edward Kibler, former president of the Ohio State Bar Association, for several years president of the Newark Board of Education is one of the leading practitioners of the Newark bar. Formerly associated in the practice of law with his distinguished father former Circuit Judge Charles H. Kibler, Mr. Kibler is now in partnership with his son under the firm name of Kibler & Kibler.

William M. Morgan of the firm Tenney & Morgan is widely known to the farmers of Licking and adjoining counties and is equally well known to the business and working men of Newark. For several years Mr. Morgan has been a director in the Newark Board of Trade and he is at present president of the Newark Trades Assembly the big organization of Newark's union labor forces.

Professor C. L. Williams is at the head of the Department of English Literature in Denison University at Granville. Professor Williams who has been a member of the Denison faculty for the past twenty years is one of the most intelligent men in the state. He is personally very popular with the college students.

The Advocate is glad indeed to place the award of 136 prizes in the hands of these men. The judges will not solve the pictures as the answers to the pictures are given by those who give suggestions to the artists. No one person living knows the answers to the 75 pictures. Details of how the work of checking the answers and how the work of the judges is to be done will be announced in due time.

The contest is just getting started. Anybody may start now as well as any time. Simply come or send for the few back copies and start. No entrance fee. The 136 prizes worth $3846 are all free to Advocate readers. See the big list 1914 auto, $600 cash, piano, furniture, building lots, diamond ring and 130 more prizes named in another column of this paper. Over 100 new contestants started Saturday. Many more are beginning today. You will be very welcome.

New Complications Arise In the Mexican Situation and Situation Is Grave

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, March 2.—Fresh reports indicating that Gustav Baugh, an American citizen was killed at Juarez coming close on the complications of the Benton case, surrounded the Mexican situation today with further complexities.

Carranza, as head of the constitutionalists, has been called upon for satisfactory explanation of Baugh's disappearance and it will be pointed out to the rebel chieftain that failure to protect all foreigners will be likely to lead to grave complications.

Further representations for a speedy clearing up of the Benton killing have gone forward, although deferring to Carranza's wish to be consulted directly in diplomatic affairs. It was being impressed upon the rebel chief today that formalities must not be permitted to stand in the way of complete protection to foreigners.

MARENGO MAN KILLS UNCLE IN QUARREL

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Mt. Vernon, O., March 2.—Allen Williams, aged 60, was shot and instantly killed, it is charged, by his nephew, Glenn Olmsted, aged 24, at the Williams home in Marengo, just north of Croton, Licking county today. Olmsted was immediately arrested by Marshal Elmer Howard, and claimed that Williams attacked him and he shot in self defense. Both of the men were married and resided in the same house.

LAST DAY TO MAKE RETURNS ON INCOME TAX

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, March 2.—Today marked the last day, under the new income tax law, for the filing of returns on private incomes for last year. The law is explicit as to the time of filing returns and, under the regulations of the treasury department, only sickness and absence are regarded as grounds for an extension.

All those who fail to file their returns today are liable to fines ranging from $20 to $10,000.

Yesterday the White House executive force was busily engaged in compiling a statement of President Wilson's private income for submission to the collector at Baltimore. While the President is not taxable on his $25,000 government salary he is taxable on the income of his books and such sources of revenue. Secretary McAdoo, who is charged with the administration of the new law, has already filed his return.

MEMBERS OF UTILITIES AT CINCINNATI, O.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Cincinnati, March 2.—Charles C. Marshall and E. W. Doty, members of the Ohio Utilities Commission with L. G. White, the commission's street railway expert, are here today making arrangements for a physical valuation of the property of the Cincinnati Traction company. The work is undertaken to arrive at proper revision of fares to be made in 1916 under the terms of the Rogers franchise under which the company operates. O. H. Hughes, third member of the commission, will come later.

TELEPHONE CABLE CUT AT CANTON, O.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Canton, O., March 2.—Many telephones of the Stark Telephone Co. are out of commission today. Information given out by the company is that a cable was cut by strike sympathizers last night and that a section of the city is therefore without telephone service. The manager of the Stark company has refused to give out details.

Strike leaders assert they had no part in cutting the cable and further declare it is their belief some one acting for the company cut the cable in order to create sympathy for the company.

Later in the day it was announced by the manager of the Stark Telephone company that 600 telephones are out of commission.

EVEN ZANESVILLE FALLS INTO LINE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Zanesville, March 2.—Local ministers were surprised yesterday when 15,000 people attended church to celebrate go-to-church day. Reports from the twenty-five churches in the movement showed an attendance of 10,073 in the morning and 4880 in the evening, exclusive of afternoon meetings and Sunday schools.

PSYCHIC EPILEPSY DEFENSE

Introduced in the Ellis Case To Save Him From Death Penalty

DEFENDANT ON STAND

Says Grandfather Was a Religious Fanatic and That He Himself Had Been Subject to Falling Spells—Trial is Nearing End.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Chicago, March 2.—The defense of psychic epilepsy, otherwise known as "transitory insanity," was brought forward today to save William Cheney Ellis from the death penalty for killing his wife here in a hotel last October.

The former Cincinnati leather merchant injured himself more seriously than was generally supposed, it was testified by Dr. A. E. Eisenstadt, the ambulance surgeon, who saw him first after the crime. Dr. Eisenstadt, however said he observed nothing abnormal in Ellis' manner or speech.

The psychic epilepsy testimony was given by Dr. L. Patrick Mackler, superintendent of the emergency hospital. "Ellis appeared to me to be an epileptic," said Dr. Mackler.

Ellis was revealed to the stand and testified that his grandfather was a religious fanatic and that his father went blind and that he himself had been subject to falling spells since he was seven years old. An effort was made to obtain records of telegraph messages sent from Cincinnati just before Mrs. Ellis left for Chicago, but telegraph officials have declared that they had no jurisdiction in the matter. The attempt will be resumed in Cincinnati, it is said.

Attorneys in the case hoped to conclude the introduction of evidence this afternoon and begin arguments. The defense expects to call more physicians in an effort to prove that Ellis was temporarily insane.

A Cincinnati telegraph operator also may be called to testify regarding Judge Pett's expected to give the case to the jury tomorrow night. Telegrams Mrs. Ellis is said to have sent to a man in Chicago.

Providential Breaking of Trolley Wire Saved Train From Wreckers' Intentions

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Los Angeles, March 2.—A broken trolley wire was all that saved a suburban electric train carrying 250 passengers from striking obstructions piled on the track between Del Rey and Redondo beach, and rolling down a twelve-foot embankment into the ocean last night.

Running from Los Angeles along the ocean front toward Redondo, at forty-five miles an hour, the two-car train slackened speed and stopped, when the wire snapped and the current was interrupted.

A few yards ahead, within reach of the headlight's rays, lay six ties piled across the track. A short distance further on a hydraulic jack was chained to the rails. Beyond that was a big sawbuck.

Police are searching the beach district for the would-be train wreckers.

WOULD OUST THE ELECTION BOARD OF WOOD COUNTY

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, March 2.—Whether the Wood county board of elections should be ousted for refusing to place the citizens ticket on the ballot at the municipal election at Bowling Green last November will be determined by Secretary of State Graves at the conclusion of a hearing at his office this afternoon of charges filed against the board, alleging that the members were guilty of misconduct, misfeasance and malfeasance.

The charges were filed shortly after the election by R. S. Sweet, who was the candidate of the Citizens party for city auditor. His name was written on the ballot and he was elected. The election board members are George Bickmyer and George M. Brubaker, Democrats, and Charles H. Draper and Henry Archer, Republicans. A. W. Purdy, Republican is clerk.

JOYFUL NEWS TO EMPLOYEES UNDER CIVIL SERVICE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Cincinnati, March 2.—A decision fraught with much importance, as it establishes a standing for appointees of the recent Democratic administration, was handed down by Superior Court Judge Pugh, Monday. It upholds the contention of four former city employees, who claimed they are entitled to their jobs under the civil service law. The employees are Thos. C. Carnes, formerly assistant foreman at the filtration plant of the city water works, and Harry W. Carpes, Frank Yanzabutt and Grover Green who served under him.

The men had been dismissed by Service Director Fossdyck. In substance, the decision which came as the result of an attack on the constitutionality of the last section of the city civil service law, construes the section as constitutional and that all employees who were in office January 1, 1911, in the classified service, may continue in office under the new civil service law.

FOUR INJURED IN WRECK ON THE PENNSY

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, March 2.—Pennsylvania passenger train No. 441, southbound from Sandusky to Columbus, where it was due to arrive at 11:55 today, ran in the rear of a double header freight train, one mile east of Worthington this afternoon.

Four men, all freight trainmen, riding blind baggage in the rear caboose, and asleep at the time, were injured but none of them seriously, with the exception of J. A. Atkins, Columbus freight conductor, who, according to reports from the hospital is in a precarious condition.

The caboose turned over upsetting the stove. Atkins was found helpless under a pile of glowing coals, his shoes having been burned off and his clothing smoldering.

The wreckage took fire and three cabooses and the passenger engine were partly consumed. Merely the steel skeleton of the engine was left standing when the flames had been extinguished by the train crews.

None of the passenger or freight crews was injured. The others were brought to Columbus in an ambulance and taken to a local hospital.

The passenger train was in charge of engineer Charles Tope. Fireman Buck Vail and Conductor O. A. Williams, and the freight crew consisted of engineer G. W. Pleasant, conductor T. B. Caldwell and flagman W. A. Layman. All the trainmen lived in Columbus.

The injured were: J. A. Atkins, freight conductor, feet and legs badly burned, possible internal injuries. Pearl Roaks, brakeman, Grocan, bruised.

A. L. Sigmond, brakeman, Cleveland, cut and bruised.

"Good" Kuntz, brakeman, bruised.

MUST AWAIT WORD FROM CARRANZA

American Commissioners Refused Permission To Examine Mr. Benton's Body

FURTHER INSTRUCTIONS

From Washington and Orders From Villa Cause a Postponement—President Wilson Would Settle the Trouble Without Armed Intervention.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, March 2.—That General Villa has acknowledged the authority of General Carranza as his chief and will not permit the American commission to examine the body of William S. Benton until the Washington government has consulted General Carranza, was the explanation made by President Wilson today of the latest phase of the Mexican situation.

The president told callers that the desire of the commissioners to get further instructions from Washington as well as orders from General Villa himself had necessitated a postponement, but Mr. Wilson takes it for granted that the commissioners will start in a few days.

Asked whether in view of the new developments a change of policy was intended by the United States, immediately, the president pointed out that a country of the size and power of the United States could afford to wait just as long as it pleased; that nobody doubted its power and nobody doubted that Huerta was eventually to retire; that there need be no hesitation in forming the judgment that what the United States wished to accomplish, but that those people who were in haste to have things done were forgetting that they would have to do them themselves, that they have to contribute brothers and sons and sweethearts to do it, if they wanted something done right away. If they were willing to wait, the president indicated such a step might not be necessary.

The president was referring, it was presumed, to speeches in congress demanding radical action of some kind, or armed intervention which he seemed to deplore.

The White House view is that strictly speaking there is no right of international law by which the United States could insist on acting for Great Britain although the American government has been asked by the powers to use its good offices for the protection of foreigners. If, however, England should not ask the United States to pursue the matter into further complications with Carranza, the American government would not feel obliged to go beyond an investigation of the facts through its own consular representatives.

The next step, it would appear from the official viewpoint here, is some intimation from Great Britain as to how far she expects the United States to push the Benton case. On the other hand, there is every reason to believe that Carranza will be expected in the near future to give the American government further assurances that all foreigners, regardless of whether their governments have recognized Huerta or not, will be safe in northern Mexico.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, March 2.—General Carranza's prestige in the eyes of the American government and the future of the constitutionalist movement so far as the United States is concerned depended to a large extent today upon the recognition or repudiation by the constitutionalist chief of the principle that the United States is the virtual guardian of the interests of all foreigners in Mexico.

The situation created by Carranza's refusal to give the United States government information about the killing of a British subject, William S. Benton, coupled with his declaration that Great Britain herself should address him on the question, is regarded by administration officials as a serious one. They feel that some of the underlying ideas of American foreign policy, evolved from the Monroe doctrine have been questioned by the constitutionalist chief. Specifically the American government had formally asked the powers of the world to give it a free hand in dealing with the Mexican problem and incidentally had undertaken to obtain security and protection for foreigners in those parts of Mexico where foreign governments had no consulates.

A test of General Carranza's attitude is involved in connection with the arrangements which the American government is seeking to make for the examination of Benton's body (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3.)

What About Your Income?

What is your total income—never mind your expenses—what is your income? Is it $2,000 or more per annum? Do you have you made a report to the Collector of Internal Revenue? Columbus? If you haven't, no matter whether or not the collector sent you a blank, you'd better get busy and mail that report tonight. See that the report gets into the postoffice tonight and bears the postmark date of March 1, or you may get into trouble with Uncle Sam. Married people may have an exemption of $4,000, unmarried people an exemption of $2,000, but whether or not you are exempt you must make a report if your income exceeds $2,000 in case of an unmarried person and $4,000 if you are married. Those in position to know say that many Newark people have not yet filed these reports. Failure to do so may mean a heavy fine. And tonight is the last chance.

If two or more persons, supplying the same number of correct answers, have used the same number of coupons for their answers, the highest rating will be given to the one whose answers are most nearly judged.

No contestant will be allowed to submit more than one set of answers, which must include not less than 70 or more than 280 coupons, with accompanying pictures.

Positively no solution may be sent in to the Contest Editor until every one of the seventy pictures has been printed. BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts before Breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid on stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent laxative, and belongs in a household as having a good kidney cure. Beware because nobody can make a better one.

IS WORST STORM

towns, including Trenton, the capital, Newark, Jersey City and Hoboken, were in darkness last night as the result of feed wires breaking under the weight of the wet snow.

The storm held up liners in the outer harbor all night and menaced shipping along the coast. Two barges sank off Governor's Island. Both had been torn from their moorings by the gale.

The four masted schooner, Jacob S. Winslow, lumber laden, for Providence from Ferdinand, went ashore on Block Island. Her crew of nine was brought ashore by life savers, but one man returned to the ship later and was drowned.

A tug lost four of her tow of barges in Long Island sound between Bridgeport and New Haven, and eight persons aboard them were saved only with difficulty. An unknown schooner is pounding to pieces on Thimble Island near New London. It is feared her crew was lost.

Snow which had ceased for a few hours during the night, began falling again early today. The gale formed by the drifts in the country districts and added to the troubles of the railroads. More than 10,000 men, under the direction of the street cleaning department, attacked the snow to keep traffic open in a few of the principal business streets. These same men quit work during the gale last night and it was feared they might not report today.

Many commuters failed to reach the city this morning, owing to crippled train service from nearby New Jersey and New York towns. Many New Jersey trains were cancelled. Fire alarm circuits in all the outlying districts of New York, Jersey City and Hoboken were demoralized.

In New York firemen were sent out on patrol duty while in the New Jersey cities hurry calls were sent for all policemen and firemen off duty to report.

The Western Union Telegraph company reported that only five of its out of town wires were up. The worst of the storm is between New York and Albany, according to wire officials. In Newark, a short circuited wire resulted in a fire which ate a bad hole in the stands of the Newark International League baseball park. The fire would probably have destroyed the entire structure but for the fact that the benches were piled high with snow and the blaze burned slowly.

New York's financial district was almost entirely shut off from the outside world today by reason of the severe weather.

With the exception of a single line to Albany, communication with Wall street, was almost at a standstill. Trading was correspondingly light with a downward tendency of prices. The telegraph companies were hopeful of making repairs in the course of the day, but most of the out of town business in the early hours of the market was transacted over the telephone.

PHILADELPHIA IN GRIP OF A BLIZZARD

(Associated Press Telegram)
Philadelphia, March 2.—The blizzard which began yesterday and continued throughout the night, abated today. The railroads appeared to be the worst sufferers, being more completely tied up than in any storm for years. Four deaths were reported in this city directly due to the storm. According to the weather bureau only five inches of snow fell, but a 43 mile wind drifted it badly. Railroad traffic on both the Pennsylvania and Reading lines was practically at a standstill in the early part of the day.

No trains had arrived here from New York since last night and in the forenoon no attempt was made to send trains out to that city.

The Pennsylvania railroad announced that 21 trains were stalled between Philadelphia and New York, some of which were "lost" because the operating officials were unable to communicate with them, all wires being down.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Philadelphia, March 2.—Philadelphians arose today to find the city in the grip of one of the worst blizzards that has struck this section in many years. Suburbanites were obliged to dig through snow banks that had drifted fence-high and traffic on most of the surface car lines was at a standstill. Conditions on the steam roads to outlying sections were little better and thousands of persons were late in reaching their places of employment, while others did not get to the city at all.

Railroad traffic between this city and New York, which was completely tied up the greater part of last night, was resumed early today but there was no attempt made to maintain schedules. Several of the trains which had been "missing" between here and New York last night, reached the city after daylight and it was believed that by midday the service could be practically normal.

Paralyzed wire service and broken semaphore arms were given as the principal reasons for the delay. The "Broadway Limited," the Pennsylvania's 24-hour Chicago train, which left New York at 2:45 yesterday afternoon, did not arrive here until early today. Similar conditions prevailed on the Baltimore and Ohio and Reading railroads.

Telegraph and telephone companies sent men out when the storm was at its height last night to repair the broken wires and other damage, but wire communication with New York was still badly crippled today and it was not expected that normal service would be resumed for several days.

MUCH DAMAGE IS REPORTED AT BALTIMORE

(Associated Press Telegram)
Baltimore, March 2.—The terrific windstorm which swept over this city and vicinity last night, continued this morning but with slowly diminishing strength, reports of property damage came from all quarters.

The steeple of the Mount Calvary Protestant Episcopal church, Madison and Rutaw streets, was torn away and hurled into Rutaw street with a crash that terrified the neighborhood. Windows in houses on Hamilton terrace, on the opposite side of Rutaw street, were broken and the roof of the rectory adjoining the church was torn off.

Roofs and signs were blown down all over the city and thousands of panes of glass were broken.

During the height of the storm, the Lutheran church of the Reformation at Lanvale and Caroline streets caught fire and was destroyed. The church stood in the center of a thickly populated section and many residents, fearing a spread of the flames, fled to the storm swept streets in scant clothing.

Three thousand barrels of whiskey were destroyed when two big warehouses of the Canton Distilleries company at Canton, a suburb, were burned.

The loss, based upon the amount of whiskey stored in the two warehouses was estimated at $300,000. The flames leaped to the A. J. Sackett Fertilizing machinery works across the street, causing an estimated damage of $20,000 before they were extinguished.

GALE FROM OFF LAKE IS RAGING AT CLEVELAND, O.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Cleveland, March 2.—Cleveland was staggered by another blizzard today by which traffic was greatly delayed and which caused much suffering among the poorer classes. A biting gale from off the lake raged all day Sunday and continued today. This was accompanied by snowfall and the temperature this morning was 12 degrees above zero. All trains on trunk railroads were late, those from the east being eight hours behind schedule.

Miss Carrie Harbner, 25, was probably fatally injured this morning when she was struck and crushed under a street car at the corner of Ontario street and Champlain avenue. She was trying to cross the street, when blinded by the storm the car ran her down before she saw it. The storm caused several cars to jump the tracks but passengers escaped serious injury.

HAVE PROMISE OF WARMER WEATHER FOR TOMORROW

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, March 2.—Although only a little over an inch and a half of snow fell in Ohio yesterday, and the temperature this morning was 8 degrees above zero, according to the weather bureau, the wind, with a velocity ranging from 20 to 48 miles an hour made it decidedly unpleasant today and caused the snow to drift considerably. The weather bureau said but little snow would fall in Ohio today and forecast lower temperatures for tonight. Forecasts for tomorrow are fair and warmer.

The weather bureau said the wind was blowing 48 miles an hour in Cleveland today, while yesterday it attained a maximum of 56 miles. Although the wind showed a velocity of 38 miles an hour in Columbus last night, it was only 20 today, according to the government records.

WARM WAVE IS ON WAY FROM PLAINS STATES

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, March 2.—The severest storm of the winter howled about its fruits of suffering and destruction today from Eastport, Me., to Savannah, Ga., while a cold wave rolling down from the great lakes country overspread the Atlantic states as far South as Florida. Lowest temperatures ever reached in March were registered in Charleston, Macon and other points in the southeast.

Centering over southern New England today the storm brought a heavy snow north of Maryland and caused shifting gales all along the Atlantic coast. No marine disasters had been reported.

Still colder weather in New England was predicted tonight but a warmer wave moving on from the plains states today promised relief for the entire East by late tomorrow and Wednesday.

HELP TO CLEAR STORM WRECKAGE

(Associated Press Telegram)
Pittsburgh, March 2.—Answering an urgent call for help, the Pennsylvania railroad early today sent a special train from here to Jersey City. It carried the hundred picked track and shop workmen to aid in clearing up the storm wreckage. Twenty-five linemen and electricians had been started east soon after midnight.

FIFTY MILE GALE SWEPT THE COAST

(Associated Press Telegram)
Norfolk, Va., March 2.—No marine disasters have been reported today from the fifty mile northeaster that swept the coast last night. The tail end of the gale still whipped the coast.

Beginning yesterday, the wind attained a velocity of 72 miles an hour and streets were filled with signs and debris from buildings and broken windows. Railroad traffic and telegraphic and telephone communication in any sections were seriously hampered and the damage will amount to thousands of dollars.

MUST AWAIT WORD

at Chihuahua. The United States representatives shall view the corpse in company with physicians. General Villa has acceded to the request. On the other hand General Carranza has pointed out to the state department that he too, must be consulted about foreign affairs. The Washington government now is consulting General Carranza. If the latter, permits the expedition to go to Chihuahua, he will be acquiescing in the right of the United States to make inquiry about the welfare of British subjects. A flat refusal of the American government's request for the examination it is admitted, would render the situation most acute. Officials always are unwilling to discuss hypothetical cases, but it was apparent today that there would be an insistence on a complete explanation of the Benton execution.

LETCHER ARRIVES TO CONDUCT THE COMMISSIONERS

(Associated Press Telegram)
El Paso, March 2.—Marion Letcher, American consul at Chihuahua, arrived here on a special train today for the purpose of conducting the Benton investigation commission to Chihuahua. When he will return was not certain.

Mr. Letcher, who will act as adviser to the commission, expected to return to Chihuahua on the special train which was provided by General Villa, but the exact time of his return, he learned, would depend upon contingencies that might arise at a conference of the commissioners.

It was the plan, on arriving at Chihuahua, to go at once to the cemetery where Villa says Benton's body is buried. After the body is examined by the two United States army surgeons in the presence of the American and British representatives, the commission without making its findings known, will return to El Paso to formulate its report.

The testimony of one witness has already been taken to Chihuahua by the British vice consul. It will be presented to the commission. The witness said he accompanied Benton from El Paso on the streetcar to Juarez on the day the British subject was executed. The gist of the testimony was that Benton made no threats against Villa's life but on the contrary, was sick that day and announced he merely was going to ask Villa for information regarding his ranch, the use of which he had been deprived of by the rebels.

General Villa's expressed belief that Gustav Bauch, who was arrested at Juarez as a spy two weeks ago, was the victim of an assassin, occasioned no surprise here, where the German-American's sister, Mrs. J. M. Patterson, and others interested in the case, have been resigned to the conclusion that Bauch was slain at Juarez a week ago last Friday. They scout the personal enemy theory, however.

Repeated assertions have been made by certain Juarez rebels talking confidentially to friends on this side of the border, that Bauch was executed, and the stories all agreed on the date of the execution, which was the day that General Villa departed for Chihuahua.

Mrs. Patterson asserted that her brother, a locomotive engineer, had no enemies. His statement before the alleged court martial that he went to Juarez "to get drunk" was accepted by Mrs. Patterson as the truth.

VILLA BELIEVES BAUCH IS DEAD

(Associated Press Telegram)
Chihuahua, Mex., March 2.—General Villa today indicated his belief that Gustav Bauch is dead when he said that Bauch, an American, was liberated at Juarez, and "doubtless was assassinated by some of his enemies."

Villa said Bauch had many enemies and added: "Of course I can't be held to blame for that."

General Villa said today that the orders delaying the Benton investigating commission which was halted at Juarez yesterday were issued by General Carranza who has determined to handle all diplomatic subjects himself.

NUMBER KILLED IN SKIRMISH

(Associated Press Telegram)
Eagle Pass, Texas, March 2.—Mexican federal authorities last night ordered a field hospital opened near Rio Molina, fifty miles west of Pedras Negras, on an official report that an all-day battle had raged there in which a number had been killed. Two hundred dragoons under Major Ocosta engaged 100 rebels commanded by Dolores Torres.

COLDEST MARCH DAY IN YEARS

Nashville, Tenn., March 2.—Nashville today had the coldest March day experienced since 1901, the thermometer registering 16 degrees above zero. Indications are for warmer weather tonight and tomorrow.

BROTHERHOODS OF CATHOLICS ARE AFFECTED

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Upon the decision of the Supreme court in a case to be considered this week, may rest the future of every brotherhood and sisterhood of the Catholic church in the United States. The court will be called upon to decide whether the vows of poverty in these orders are against public policy, as recently decided by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of the Eighth district.

The case in question arises out of the death of Father Wirth, a member of the Order of St. Benedict, founded about 525 A. D. At the time of his death in 1901, he was in charge of the German Catholic church at Springfield, Minn.

Nearly fifty years before his death, he took the vows of the Benedictine society of chastity, poverty and obedience. He was then 23 years old. The effect of the vow of poverty was that all right of possessing property on his part was transferred to the order, and that the order on its part became obligated to educate, maintain and support him for life.

Father Wirth became a member of the St. Vincent mission of Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, in 1846. Later he was made prior of a monastery in Kansas, and about 1897 went to Minnesota. During his life he had become such an honored member, that his superior permitted him to retain in his possession certain property. At the time of his death he was in possession of some $5000, in addition to royalties from books he had written.

The Probate court of Brown county, Minnesota, recognized his heirs as entitled to the property. After a series of appeals with the order, the heirs succeeded in getting a decision from the United States Circuit court that the effect of the vow of poverty was against public policy and therefore void. The heirs were held entitled to the property.

Approximately 59,000 priests, brothers, and nuns will be affected by the decision, as it is probable that this title of the orders to their churches, colleges, school houses, hospitals and sanitariums in practically every state of the union may be drawn into question. It was also pointed out that the decision might affect the religious orders of the Episcopal church and some of the other Protestant churches.

Colonel Gillett Caused Stir Among Buckeye Republicans In New York, By Giving "Tip"

Colonel Melville M. Gillett of this city caused a big stir among Ohio Republicans in New York last week after returning there from a short trip to Columbus, by giving a tip that Dr. William O'xley Thompson, President of Ohio State University might become the Republican candidate for governor.

According to the Enquirer correspondent in New York the colonel is almost enthusiastic over the prospect of the noted educator heading the Republican ticket this fall, but his impression was evidently not well founded in fact, and the stir among Gotham Republicans who vote in Ohio was probably a sad waste of nervous energy, for "Prexy" Thompson is credited with an absolute denial of any hankering after the empty honor, and has refused to be considered as a starter in the scramble.

The Enquirer despatch goes on to say: "It remained for Colonel Gillett to discern the down-deep movement, kept carefully under cover for a month, to nominate Dr. William O'xley Thompson as the Republican candidate for governor. Pains were taken not formally to announce Dr. Thompson as a possible candidate before or during the 'get together' meeting of last week in Columbus, but it was planned quietly to urge him upon the thousand or more Republicans from every section of the state and to learn what they thought of the suggestion. Colonel Gillett during his stay in Columbus earlier in the week was taken into several private conferences of old-fashioned Republicans, who insisted that Dr. Thompson would come nearer satisfying every faction of the Republican party and besides give Governor Cox or any other Democratic candidate for governor much to think about. For years Dr. Thompson has been looked upon as the most popular college president in Ohio, and the fact that he was once a preacher is counted much in his favor during the strong temperance movements of the last few years. He is a native of Ohio, born near Cambridge, Guernsey county, in eastern Ohio, and grew up a rugged son of the soil, working his way through college and into the ministry by his own efforts.

"Colonel Gillett came back much impressed with the possibilities of a Republican ticket headed by Dr. Thompson, and is no less impressed with the great preliminary campaign Dr. Thompson could make for the nomination against a dozen others already announced, including Congress-

ST. DAVID THE GLORY OF THE WALES CHURCH

Sunday was the first Sunday of Lent and the feast day of St. David. The rector of St. Francis de Sales, having read the epistle and gospel of the day and spoken at some length on the forty days' fast of our Lord, took the great bishop of our Welsh church as a model of prayer and penance. A brief history of the saint was given and his work both as a monk and bishop, his founding of some twelve monasteries and the rule he established for the religious who dwelt therein. The speaker described the beauty of those monastic institutions, their influence on the manners and customs of the people and the advance in civilization during the life of St. David. He also gave a brief survey of other saints of Wales such as Winifred and described her convent at Holy Well which he visited in the summer of 1900. The beauty of Welsh scenery and the general character of the people, their love of learning and music, their ancient language which they have lovingly preserved and the tenacity with which they have held the best traditions of their country were all briefly but lucidly outlined. Wales, the speaker said, was closely in touch with Ireland during those ages of faith, and in language and race were practically the same. For centuries saints and scholars of both countries exchanged visits and taught in the great monastic schools which were all free and where thousands of scholars from all parts of the continent of Europe sought the best forms of education that was in vogue in those days. Both races were friendly to the stranger and hospitality was not only practiced freely but was enforced, when necessary, by law. Some idea of the austerities practiced in the sixth century during Lent may be gleaned from the rule which St. David and his monks and secular clergy practiced. This forbade the use of flesh and only bread and vegetables and water mixed with milk were allowed. Nevertheless those monks were stalwart and active men engaged mostly in the tilling of the land and giving their nights to prayer, meditation and the copying of the Bible and other books, the manuscripts of which are the admiration of the scholars of the world. When we who are accustomed to so much luxury and comfort reflect on the simple and holy lives of these early people, how little our works of piety seem in comparison with them! To them the words of the Holy Spirit was a reality. "The kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent bear it away."

A Wireless Message From The Dead

By F. A. MITCHEL

We are moving so fast in scientific discoveries that, lost in wonder at what we know, we have no time to consider what our attained knowledge is likely to develop in future. For instance, we know that an electric current may be transmitted without any other medium than the atmosphere. We also know that functions of the body, if not electric, are a force something like electricity.

When I was a boy I was constantly finding myself saying something to a companion who would say, "Why, I was just about to say that myself!" At the time I considered this a coincidence. Now I believe it to be a power I possessed in receiving the mental impressions of others by a sort of wireless process. I studied medicine and became a doctor. Then during hospital work I broke down and, though it was between winter and spring, was obliged to go to the country to recover.

I stopped at a house that looked down a valley, and the view was interrupted. I used to sit on the porch wrapped in rugs and enjoy the view in the sunshine. About a mile distant was a house that bore evidence of having been built in colonial times. It was not by any means a farmhouse, but something quite handsome. The architecture was that peculiar style involving a porch with pillars.

One night I was awakened by the sound of wheels stopping right under my window and thought I heard some one call "Doctor!" I raised the sash and put my head out through the window. A man in a wagon asked me if I was a doctor, and I said I was, whereupon he begged me to come with him at once. I dressed myself unwillingly, went downstairs and got into the wagon with him. I asked him to tell me about the nature of the case I was expected to treat, but could get nothing out of him. He seemed entirely absorbed in some powerful emotion.

We were but a few minutes in reaching our destination, drawing up before a house with pillars from the porch to the roof. I inferred that I had come to the house about which I had so often dreamed. The door was opened by a woman in a short petticoat full at the hips, a kerchief across her bosom and a dainty cap on her head. She looked very much troubled.

"Come upstairs," she said.

I followed her up a winding staircase, and the woman opened a door with a glass knob. I entered the sickroom to see a young woman lying on a bed with four high posts surmounted by a canopy. On one side of her was a man holding one of her hands; on the other side was a young girl holding the other. These two looked at me with that mute appeal a doctor is so often obliged to meet.

As I drew near the bed the girl with the invalid pulled down the bedclothes, and I saw at once from blood stains and temporary bandages that my patient had been wounded. I was not a surgeon, but felt obliged to perform a surgeon's part. I examined the wound and saw that it was near the heart, so near that I wondered that the wounded woman lived. There was nothing that I could do for her except bind up the wound in a more professional manner and await results.

Presently I saw her gasp, and between gasps she said to the man beside her:

"You are convinced of the unjustness of your suspicions?"

"Yes, yes; forgive me."

"I forgive you. Goodbye."

She fell back dead.

Amid a wall of those present I retired from the room. Notwithstanding the tragical circumstances, I could not but notice the costume of those in the house. "What singular persons!" I said to myself. "Not content with living in a colonial house, they adopt the colonial costume." This was especially marked in their collars, which were like those I had seen in pictures of America's early settlers. I was ushered out by the woman who received me and driven back to my home, where I went to bed, remaining half awake, half asleep, for the rest of the night.

Now, there was something uncanny about my visit, and I hesitated to talk about it to those in the house. I asked if any of the family had heard a wagon stop before the house during the night, but no one had heard any such sound. This induced me to malacca a respite about my visit. Presently I ventured to ask who lived in the house with pillars and was told that no one lived there. It had been unoccupied for many years. The last tenant had vacated some thirty years before. I asked if anything peculiar had taken place there, but no one had heard of anything unusual. But before returning to the city I heard from a very old resident of the region there was a legend that long before the Revolution a murder had been committed there. A man in a fit of jealousy had stabbed his wife.

And now in this second decade of the twentieth century I have come to believe that the scene I witnessed took place as I saw it many years ago; that it was stored somewhere; it may be in some soul across the border, possibly one of the participants who flashed it to me by some such process as a wireless operator will flash a message from one side of the world to another.

ALL NATIONS TO ENTER GLOBE-GIRDLING PANAMA-PACIFIC AVIATION RACE FOR $300,000

The most tremendous aerial drama will be staged in 1915 when the signal is given for the 22,000-mile Panama-Pacific International Aviation race around the world for prizes of $300,000 or more. Aeronauts from all civilized nations with every description of air craft driven by motors will participate. The event will compare with the crossing of the Atlantic by Columbus and the circumnavigation of the globe by Magellan in 1522. Alvin Kruel, man, chief of the Panama-Pacific position bureau of aeronautics, will start soon upon a trip around the world, traversing the entire route, to establish control points and confer with commissioners that will be appointed by the various nations. The functions of this commission will be clearly separate from the aeronautical supervision of the race, which will be under the jurisdiction of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. According to the present plan the commission will be composed of men, whose selection will be placed in the hands of the President of the United States, the King of England, the President of France, the Emperor of Germany, the Czar, the Mikado and the Premier of the British Columbia. The start of the race will be in May, 1915, from the aviation field of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. Patrols of scout cruisers will be established to mark the trail over the oceans and lend assistance if needed. Each mail ship will carry at least two men who will check in at each control, day, where it will be stamped. Repair and rebuilding will be permissible. Aviators are confident that by May, 1915, such progress will have been made that success will be assured. It is probable that by that time the aviation field of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition will have been crossed so successfully that the competitors will be given the choice of routes by mid-Atlantic or by way of Greenland. Circumnavigation of the globe will be the supreme adventure of our

NEWARK'S ASSISTANT POSTMASTER

One of the first official acts of Postmaster J. H. Newton was the appointment of Mr. Jacob M. Farmer to be Assistant Postmaster in the Newark office. In compliance with the rules and regulations of the Civil Service in connection with the postal service, it was necessary for Mr. Farmer to take the civil service examination, which he did on the 17th day of January. He passed the examination with the highest honors, as

Wisdom from Washington

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, March 2.—[Special.]—Members of the house of representatives become somewhat restive under the conditions which place the business of the house in the hands of a few members. "Go into the house any day now," said Congressman Volstead of Minnesota, "and you will find that the committee in charge of the bill—Jim Mann, Frank Mondell of Wyoming and Stafford of Wisconsin—is conducting the measure while the rest of the house is absent."

"The principal reason for this situation," remarked a man who had observed the house for many years, "is that the membership of the house has been increased to such an extent that it is unwieldy. The larger the membership the less opportunity for individuality. Then the construction of the house office building with a separate office for every member makes his room more attractive than listening to the dull discussion of small matters considered in the house."

"Yes," assented Volstead, "and taking out the desks, leaving the members no place to work, has contributed to the present condition. Most of the business of the house is now conducted in the committees, and the large majority of the members have nothing to do with it."

Little Chance For Change

There is little hope that the condition in the house of representatives will be changed. It is always easier to increase the membership than to cut it down. Although a large majority of the members of the house actually believe that a membership of 300 would be better than the present membership of 435, any move in that direction is almost sure to be defeated. In the first place, it would mean that 135 members would lose their seats. The self preservation idea would come in, and a large majority of the members would rather be members of the house, drawing $7,500 a year and the perquisites, even if they have no part in the proceedings, than see any reform in the house.

Fun With Fitzgerald.

When the deficiency bill was under consideration some members prodded Chairman Fitzgerald. "I notice the bill carries $800,000 for public buildings, of which $350,000 goes to the city of New York," remarked Jim Mann. "I suppose every man is tempted and at times yields to temptations."

"There would have been more if it had not been for me," declared Fitzgerald. "This money is not to be expended in my district. There are twenty-two members of congress from the city of New York."

"There are twenty-two members from New York on the rolls," said Mann. "but the city in the main is represented by the gentleman from Brooklyn, Mr. Fitzgerald. I simply wish to pay my respects to my friend from New York for not missing an opportunity of taking what he could get."

Fitzgerald again protested that he was urged at other times to take more for his district and refused. "And I commend my own action," he added amidst laughter of the house.

"I suppose," interjected Sherley of Kentucky, "that the gentleman from New York is undertaking to prove the old saying that, considering his opportunities, he marvels at his moderation."

Reason For Friendship.

An orator, speaking of peace between Great Britain and the United States, said that there were 3,000 towns and cities in Great Britain and Canada which bear the same names as 3,000 towns and cities in the United States. That so many names are similar is not strange in view of the fact that the United States and Canada were settled by English originally and brought their names with them.

Montana in the Limelight.

The state of Montana held the center of the stage in the senate for several days on what seemed to be a trivial matter, but which was a question of the jurisdiction of committees.

Senator Walsh is chairman of the committee on mines and mining and, as somebody once termed him, a "hog for work." He is willing to take up all the work there is in sight, and he was struggling for control of the important Alaska measure, which members of the committee on public lands insisted belonged to them. Senator Myers of Montana is chairman of the committee on public lands, but he is not quite so ambitious as his colleague. That battle raged in the open session, while in the executive session Montana had an interesting fight over the confirmation of a man appointed postmaster. Many days of the session were taken up by the Montana State.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Aid in the System.

The remedy for uric acid disorders is, first of all, the cutting off of all sources of supply; second, the adoption of measures whereby the acid in the system may be destroyed and its elimination encouraged.

Hot baths destroy the uric acid by increasing oxidation, thus burning up the poison. For this purpose baths must be hot enough to produce an elevation in the temperature of the blood and should be continued twenty to thirty minutes. Cold baths also increase oxidation and thus contribute to the destruction of uric acid. But cold baths are generally very badly borne by persons suffering from uric acid disorders and can only be tolerated when combined with hot baths, the hot bath being administered first to prepare the system to react promptly, quickly and completely after the cold application.

Exercise is another measure of the highest importance in dealing with uric acid disorders. The exercise must be large in amount, but very moderate in character. Violent exercises easily overtax the heart, which is likely to be weak in these conditions. The free use of fresh fruits, especially juicy fruits, is highly useful. The idea that the use of acid fruits is injurious in uric acid diseases is entirely erroneous. The effect of acid fruits differs entirely from that of mineral acids. The latter diminish the alkalinity of the blood, and thus they aggravate uric acid disorders, whereas fruit acids increase alkalinity. Copious water drinking is to be commended.

Read What Mr. Miller Says of Advocate's Big Contest

Writing to the Advocate, Mr. Ralph P. Miller, I. O. O. F. building, Columbus, O., says under date of Feb. 28:

"I want to congratulate you on your reply to the criticisms of D. C. B. The argument, if argument it may be called, advanced by him is stupendously ridiculous and I like very much your suggestion that he should 'get down and out' if he thinks the contest unfair."

"I want to also congratulate your artist. I have been in a great many contests and have been more or less successful in all, but I have never seen pictures that were as satisfactory. I do not mean that they are the best that I have ever seen, for Ireland is pretty hard to beat, but they are, to me, the most satisfactory. I notice that there has been some talk about the pictures being hard. Well, for my part I hope the winner will not have more than 50 per cent of them correct. That would certainly be a feather in the cap of the editor."

"I am delighted with the sport of hunting the answers and I already have more than the requisite number of good answers to nearly all of the pictures thus far, except, of course, the first six, and I expect to use all the answers that will be allowed and if I am a poor guesser I will have the pleasure anyhow. Respectfully yours,
"RALPH P. MILLER."

The Creative Impulse.

The creative impulse does not itself know the next step it will take or the next form that will arise any more than the creative artist determines beforehand all the thoughts and forms his inventive genius will bring forth. He has the impulse or the inspiration to do a certain thing, to let himself go in a certain direction, but just the precise form his creation will take is as unknown to him as to you and me. Some stubbornness or obduracy in his material, or some accident of time or place, may make it quite different from what he had hoped or vaguely planned. He does not know what thought or incident or character he is looking for till he has found it, till he has risen above his mental horizon. So far as he is inspired, so far as he is spontaneous, just so far is the world with which he deals plastic and fluid and indeterminate and ready to take any form his medium of expression—words, colors, tones—affords him. He may surprise himself, excel himself; he has surrendered himself to a power beyond the control of his will or knowledge.—John Burroughs in the Atlantic.

Morning Noises.

At early morn one's sleep seems best, and man would get all kinds of rest, if silence would obtain; but at the first faint peep of day the world wakes up, and gets too gay, and beds are all in vain. In town the milkman comes along and makes a racket with his gong, while drowsy people swear; and wagons rattle through the streets, and news-boys shriek the morning sheets, and noise is everywhere. And so the man who fain would sleep just hands out curses large and deep, and sighs: "I'll leave the town; I'll seek the quiet country-side, where man, when tired and heavy-eyed, can hold some slumber down." So to some bosky dell he speeds, convinced 'twill answer all his needs, and with a farmer board; and in the morn, when dawn is gray, he hears the hoot and grunt and bray of all the barnyard hordes. The cows are bawling passing well, the frisky mules rear up and yell, the porkers voice their woe; the goats, the guinea hens, the geese get busy and disturb the peace, the bughouse roosters crow. And in the dawning, cold and bleak, the victim swears in French and Greek, in Gaelic and low Dutch; he swears in dead and living tongues, and, though he wears out both his lungs, it doesn't help him much.

First Things

The first experience on a large scale of smoothing water by means of oil was made at Peterhead, England, by Mr. Shields, thirty-two years ago today. A force pump with 1,200 feet of lead and iron pipe was used to throw the oil upon the waves at the harbor's mouth. Although the sea was running high, it became smooth as soon as the pump began to "pour oil upon the troubled waters." On many occasions since then vessels in danger at sea have used oil to smooth the waves, with great success. The most recent example of the efficacy of oil in stilling the billows was afforded when the Uranian liner Voltorno burned in mid-ocean last October. When the rescue ships, summoned by wireless, first arrived at the scene of disaster, the waves were so high that it was impossible to approach the burning vessel. The arrival of a tank steamer, which turned a flood of oil upon the sea, made the work of rescue comparatively easy, for the billows, which had been mountainous, were reduced to mere ripples.

COURT ADJOURNS ON ACCOUNT LOW PRESSURE OF GAS

Br-r-r! Ah-zowie! And the court shivered and the lawyers shivered, and the spectators shivered — and court was adjourned until noon, Monday, aybe longer.

"Cold!" inquired Court Stenographer Cooper, "Why, man alive, the arctic zone hasn't anything on this court room."

Cee quoth Bailiff Emswiler, "Ish I had my furs."

And as wonder it was 43 degrees above zero — or was it below? — when common pleas court convened Monday morning. Nevertheless, Judge Fulton disposed of several decisions, motions, etc.

One state case was set for Monday. Ohio vs. Spicer, a criminal assault charge, but it was passed. The state's witnesses were not present, and anyhow it was too cold in the court room so legal business was cut short.

It had been the hope of Prosecutors Jones and the court to have the criminal assignment calendar pretty well cleared this week, but many more mornings of frigid temperature will upset the entire routine, it is said, and several matters may go over into next week when Judge Edwin Mansfield of Mansfield will sit on the bench here.

Judge Fulton has been compelled to resort to chamber's sessions in some of the cases during the extreme cold period.

Justice Scott's Court.
Joe Dermer, charged with attempted housebreaking, was arraigned before Magistrate E. S. Scott Monday, waived examination and entered a plea of guilty. He was placed under bond of $100 for appearance before the next grand jury before the next grand jury.

In an affidavit signed by Miss Mary Martin, who occupies apartments on the second floor, front, of a flat at 308 West Main street, Dermer is charged with having broken into her home with intent to steal some of her belongings. The attempted robbery is alleged to have occurred during the daytime last Thursday.

divs won the "Beal" law election Saturday by a majority of 11. The East Side gave the drys a lead of 48 and on the West Side the wets had but a majority of 11 to offset it. When the polls were closed both sides were dubious. The ringing of one lone church bell was the only outward indication that the drys had scored a victory.

The city voted wet two years ago, after being dry for three years. Seven saloons will have to quit business. Roseville, three miles north of here, also voted dry Saturday. The majority was 58. There school children paraded the streets all day, headed by dry leaders.

SPORTSMEN WANT EXPLANATION OF U. S. GAME LAWS

Local sportsmen, particularly those who are fond of hunting duck and other waterfowl, are seeking an interpretation of the federal laws prohibiting spring shooting. The desire for an interpretation was more in demand this morning when sportsmen started the discussion of the telegraphic news in Sunday's papers telling of the number of waterfowl killed by Governor Cox's party in Florida.

The federal law divides the country into two zones, the fortieth parallel being the dividing line. North of this line the closed season extends from December 16 to October 1, with certain exceptions noted. South of the fortieth parallel the closed season extends from January 16 to October 1, also with certain exceptions, none of which exceptions include any part of Florida.

Efforts of sportsmen to get an interpretation from Columbus officials have failed. The federal law provides that the secretary of agriculture may issue permits for the hunting of birds for scientific purposes. Perhaps the Columbus party was so regarded and that the ducks killed were for scientific purposes.

DROP IN MERCURY; POLICE COURT IS BUSY AS RESULT

With the drop in temperature Saturday night came an increase in the number of petty offenses to be taken into custody by the police. Eleven cases waited the arrival of Mayor Gibbs Monday morning, all the defendants being charged with drunkenness. Four of the offenders were "transients" who claimed to be seeking work. Fines of $25 and costs with a workhouse sentence appended, all being suspended on condition that the prisoners leave town at once brought promises from the men that they would travel. Guy Good, who has been a chronic offender since Mayor Bigbee's term started drew a real workhouse sentence when the announced his inability to pay a fine of $25 and costs. He made the trip Monday afternoon with Patrolman Burroughs. Six others drew smaller fines and paid or agreed to pay the amounts.

GAS PRESSURE FAILS; SCHOOLS ARE DISMISSED

Conditions During the Recent Cold Weather Have Caused Demoralization—Question of Burning Coal.

The uncertainty of the natural gas supply in the public schools of Newark, has had a tendency to demoralize the work in the various grades to an extent that is difficult to estimate from a standpoint of loss to the pupils. During the recent cold spell hardly a day passed that did not witness the dismissal of certain schools in the city on account of inability to keep the rooms at a habitable temperature. Sometimes two or three rooms in one building were affected, at another maybe that many grades different from those at other schools so that the situation is trying upon pupils and teachers alike.

This morning the failure of gas necessitated the dismissal of thirty-five rooms, and for the first time this year the condition affected the Woodside building.

The question is being asked by parents and those interested, why steps are not taken to arrange for burning coal under such circumstances, and the matter may be taken up by the board of education at tomorrow night's meeting.

LITTLE DISCUSSIONS OF LOVE AND MARRIAGE BY BARBARA BOYD

The Real Self As a Matrimonial Partner.

"Seems to me if people would be their real selves, they would make for happiness in marriage," observed the Bachelor Girl.

"I don't know," objected the Bachelor. "People are too much their real selves now. If they would be less selfish and discourteous and inconsiderate, there would be less friction on the matrimonial journey."

"You think then, do you," laughed the Bachelor Girl, "that when people are selfish and impolite, they are showing their real selves?"

"Well," reluctantly admitted the Bachelor, "aren't married people continually being told in press and pulpit, to continue, after marriage, the same little courtesies that they showed before marriage; and to be considerate of each other after the knot is tied as they were before, and more to that effect?"

"But does that argue that the after-marriage individual is the real self any more than the pre-marriage one? I don't think so. And anyway on all counts, I argue for the real self being shown. I still think it is shown before marriage. But admitting, for the sake of argument, that some people do, for the time being, evolve a false personality, that they deceive and sham and counterfeit and pretend to be something they are not, what does it amount to? Only disillusionment and unhappiness. And nothing is gained. So that this course seems scarcely worth while. You may win, or think you win, another's love by false pretences. But you don't hold it. And if that is what you are after, you lose out. But what I am contending for is that people should be their real true selves before marriage, after marriage, and all the time."

"Heaven forbid!" exclaimed the Bachelor pessimistically. "But," persisted the Bachelor Girl, "What is a person's true self?"

"I am afraid most of us would hate to take a look into our consciousness and honestly admit what we see there."

"That's just what he should do," energetically responded the Bachelor Girl. "We should see just what is there, and label it, and sort it, and put it in its proper place. And do you think that any one of us, when we get right down in earnest to the matter, would admit that the real self is evil? We may see evil in ourselves. Every one of us would see evil in one form or another. But don't we, when we are really genuinely honest and earnest with ourselves, believe that this evil is to be overcome, put down, thrown out? Then it is not our real self. For we do not want this evil to be, but our real self wants to be. So you see, after all, our real self isn't evil. The evil self is only a fictitious self, something superimposed. And so you see, if we are all our real selves, and the whole of our real selves, I think we would be very nice people. I enjoy imagining what the world would be like, if every one was his real self, this good self with all the evil thrown out. I like to imagine what the homes that I knew would be like with the husband and wife and children letting their real selves be the only persons there. How jolly and pleasant and kind and loving they would all be. And the more of his real self a person will let develop and blossom out, the less and less the evil in him will become. Evil can't remain in the presence of good. It simply fades. So it seems to me that the process of reforming one's self isn't such a difficult matter after all. It is simply letting the good that is in one have a chance. And I think if some husbands and wives whom I know would do this, there would be a lot more harmony in their homes. If they would let the love and kindness and thoughtfulness and unselfishness that now are going away and dwindling, blossom out, how different at once the atmosphere of their homes would be, and how much happier."

"I wonder what my true self would be like?" hinted the Bachelor, smiling for a compliment.

But the Bachelor Girl refused to "rise" to the bait.

Minstrel Tonight. Yesterday when the weather was the most disagreeable, and the wind was blowing the hardest, a red car was backed into the B. & O. yards. At first one would take it for an advance car for one of the circuses, or a sure sign of spring. But it was the car that brought The Richards and Pringle's Famous Minstrels for their engagement at the Auditorium tonight.

This organization has played some of the largest cities for over 30 years, but they have never had a show that gave such satisfaction as the one they are now offering to-night. The first part far surpasses anything ever seen in this city, having the best and highest priced colored comedians in minstrelism, they keep the audience in an uproar from beginning to end. They

DENISON DEFEATS OBERLIN

Oberlin, March 2.—Denison's heavy basketball quintet played one of the most marvelous games ever staged in Warner gymnasium Saturday night. Oberlin was never in the lead from the time the whistle blew till the finish. The final score was 42 to 23.

The crimson and gold team was completely outclassed and was not able to score a field goal until the first period was practically over. The count at the end of the first half was 22 to 8.

The "Big Red" five from Granville started scoring immediately after the toss-up and Oberlin was unable to stop them. The superior weight of the visitors gave them a great advantage over the light local team, which was also handicapped by the absence of Thiele, the star right forward, who is out of the game for the remainder of the season because of faulty objection.

"Pin" Degroff, a varsity man of two years ago took Thiele's place and played a brilliant game. Henderson, commonly known as "Squirt," was powerless against Thiele. The Oberlin guard tossed but two baskets, while Thiele caged four.

The excellent team work of Denison was the chief reason for their decisive victory. The dazzling floor play of the Baptists could not be solved. They were more rangy and were so adept in teamwork that they could easily work the ball into an opportune position and cage the oval without further trouble.

Fisher was beaten on the jump from the start to the finish by Captain Prouty of Denison. But Fisher in turn stuck to Prouty like a leech holding him to one fielder and tossing two for himself.

Oberlin played a fast, scrappy game and never gave up hope until the last whistle blew for play to cease. Not till within two minutes of the end of the first half did Oberlin score a field goal. Then both Degroff and Henderson broke away.

The second half was more evenly played. Oberlin took a decided brace and secured more frequent shots at the basket. However, it was impossible to overcome Denison's lead or even to hold their own. The Big Red team from downstate scored twenty points compared with fifteen accumulated by the crimson and gold.

For Denison the offensive work of Black, Thiele and Reese featured while Captain Prouty and Jones were towers of strength on the defense. Prouty outplayed Fisher at center.

Henderson was the particular individual star for Oberlin. He shot seven out of eight fouls and caged the ball twice from the field. Denison scored nineteen field goals during the game, while Oberlin was only able to secure eight. This illustrates the wonderful work of the Baptist team.

The lineup and summary: Denison—42. Oberlin—23. Black R. F. De Groff Thiele L. F. Henderson Prouty C. Fisher Edwards R. G. Reese Jones L. G. Curtis

Field goals—Black 8; Thiele 4; Reese 5; Prouty, Jones, De Groff 2; Henderson 2; Fisher 2; Edwards 2. Poul goals—Henderson 7; Thiele, Jones.

Substitution—Glaugue for Curtis. Time of halves—Twenty minutes. Referee—Mr. Paul. Umpire—Mr. Miller.

FRESH AIR AND HEALTH

Mental work calls an unusual supply of blood to the brain; the process of digestion calls the blood to the stomach. Brain work immediately after a hearty meal often causes indigestion because the brain has first call on a supply of blood that should be helping the stomach.

Wherever, in the economy of the body, work is to be done there is a demand for bright, red blood. Thin blood or blood dark with impurities will not do because it is the oxygen carried by the blood that does the work and oxygen-bearing blood is bright and red. This life-sustaining oxygen is taken up by the blood from the air which it meets in the lungs. Hence the great need of fresh air every hour of the day and night. But fresh air is useless if the blood cannot take up the oxygen which it gives. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enable the blood to take up more oxygen because they increase the part of the blood that carries the oxygen. This corrects the lassitude, palpitation of the heart, shaky nerves and the pallor that are the results of thin, impure blood.

You must have pure, rich blood to enjoy complete health. A booklet "Building Up the Blood" will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIP IS ALMOST ASSURED

[Special to the Advocate] Granville, March 2.—The defeat of Oberlin Saturday evening practically assures Denison of the intercollegiate basketball championship of Ohio. Although the Big Red team has three conference games to play the teams which remain on the schedule have not displayed much strength this season and little trouble is contemplated for the Baptist five the rest of the season.

Considerable praise was merited by Denison in the victory at Oberlin as the team defeated Ohio Wesleyan in a hard contest the night before and also the Granville players were forced to travel most of the day in order to reach Oberlin in time for the game.

The crimson and gold five were more anxious to win from Denison than from any other team played this year and every effort was made to bring this about. State is the only hard game that now remains on the Oberlin schedule.

LEFTY GILBERT WOULD BUY CLUB AT TERRE HAUTE

According to an Associate Press paragraph from Terre Haute, Wm. J. Gilbert, pitcher for the Newark Central League club in 1911 is negotiating for the control of the Terre Haute club for the present season. Gilbert is under contract with Denver of the Western League but he announced Saturday that a deal had about been completed whereby he will again become a free agent. He proposes to organize a stock company to purchase the "Huts" and will manage the team himself if the deal is successful. Gilbert is well known in Newark having married Miss Anna George formerly of this city.

Today in Pugilistic Annals

1896—Kid McCoy stopped Tommy Ryan in the 15th round at Maspeth, near New York City. McCoy had been Ryan's sparring partner, and had been given some hard lacerations by the Syracuse boxer. The Hoosier was anxious to get even, and he tricked Tommy into believing that the fight was to be very much to the hippodrome. The kid wrote Tommy a letter saying he would be contented with the loser's end, if it was made forty per cent., to which Tommy assented. While Ryan was lagging, McCoy was training for the battle of his life, and from the very first round he showed himself Ryan's master. The speedy McCoy made Ryan a chopping block, and landed on him at will. In the fifteenth Ryan was twice knocked down for the count of nine before taking the full count, and McCoy had his revenge.

1913—Matty Baldwin defeated Pat Bradley in six rounds at Philadelphia.

FED'S OFFER IS REFUSED; MATTY TRUE TO M'GRAW

[Associated Press Telegram] Chicago, March 2.—A flat rate of $45,000 for three seasons' work as manager of the federal league was wired today to Christy Mathewson.

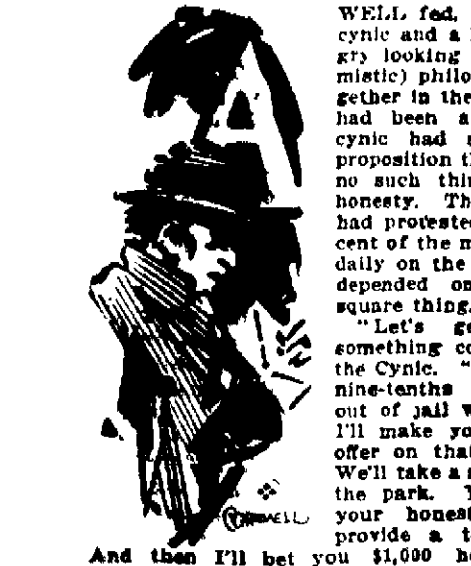

CHRISTY MATHEWSON
The tournament at Aiken, the fashionable South Carolina resort, is scheduled to continue two weeks, and will be followed by a meet of similar length at the Camden Polo Club, where the southern circuit cups will be played for. In California the Coronado season will continue to the 26th, after which the poloists will hold forth at Mateo until April 4th. April dates have been awarded to the Devon Polo Club, and in May there will be polo meets at the Philadelphia Country Club, Piping Rock and Bryn Mawr. In June there will be action at Great Neck, Islip, Kansas City, Brook, Rockaway and Smithdown, as well as the international cup match on June 5th and 13th. Newport, Point Judith and Midway tournaments are scheduled for July. Rocky mountain followers of the game will meet in Denver the latter part of August, and the Thousand Islands club and Rumson will also begin meets in that month. Essex County, Whittier River and Spokane have been awarded September dates.

Polo, it may be explained for the benefit of the uninitiated, is a game two or six thousand years old, having been played by the Persians and other old-timers. Under modern rules, the turf field is 600 by 450 feet, with goals at either end. There are four players mounted on ponies on each side. They are armed with long-headed mallets, and the object of the game is to drive a wooden ball between the goal posts. Goals and to protect the goal. Three players from the first offensive line while the fourth goes around the horse and to the goal out.

And then I'll bet you $1,000 he turns out crooked.

The Philosopher considered the matter. "Done," he said at last. "I bet you a betting man ordinarily, but it's plain that only by causing him to lose $1,000 can one convince a cynic."

The money having been posted, the Cynic borrowed $10,000 in cash from the philosopher, put his test of human honesty into writing, and sealed the writing and the $10,000 in separate envelopes. "They started for the park," he said. "You pick your man," said the Cynic to the Philosopher, "and I will give him his instructions."

They crossed the park, observing the derelicts there and then walked back again. At last the Philosopher stopped before a selected young man in a frayed overcoat and a slouch hat. "This is my man," he said to the Cynic.

The young man looked up with the frightened air of an animal who has been given one beating and expects another. "You need not be alarmed," the Philosopher told him. "My friend has some work for you."

The derelict's look of alarm vanished. "Work!" he said. "That's what I want."

The Cynic smiled on him benevolently. "That's what they all say," he observed in his most cynical manner.

"Come with us," went on the Cynic, "for there is that to be done this evening which demands a desperate spirit."

So the Cynic conducted the derelict to the Philosopher's house. There, in the Cynic's presence, he presented the derelict with two envelopes.

"This first envelope," said the Cynic, "contains your instructions. The second contains something which you must deliver. You are not under any circumstances to open it. Of course, you must understand that, should you open it, we have no way of punishing you. My friend here,"—again the Cynic— "his most benevolent manner"—is convinced that you are a man of honor."

The derelict took the two envelopes and the three men parted. The Cynic and the Philosopher returned to their homes, their families, and their supper. The derelict, homeless and supple, to study his instructions.

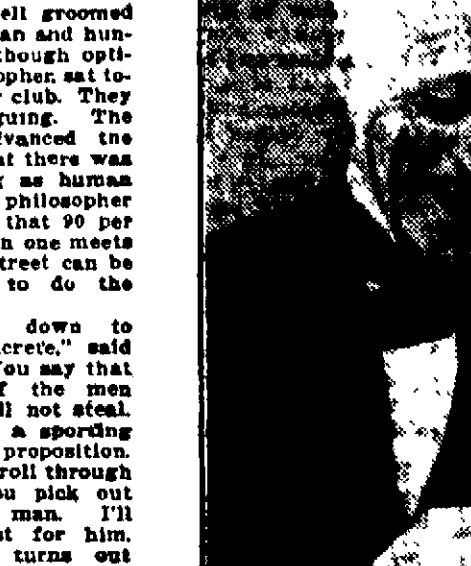

"You are to take the second envelope," read the sealed orders, "and go at midnight to the general in its scope and methods that every citizen will be included in the general development. It will come to him personally, whether property owner, merchant, business man, mechanic or laborer, that he is a part of the scheme, that it is to his interest to join forces with the trend of effort, and in fact it is the popular thing to be enumerated on the side of an organization which is bringing more prosperity and consequent happiness to the entire city."

John O'Hara

John O'Hara, who appears as the philosopher in Selig's photodrama "The Cynic," is a seasoned actor in repertory and has for two seasons past been playing in vaudeville with his wife in a playlet of their own make. He appeared prominently in Selig's production of "Too Late." At present he is a member of the company presenting "Seven Keys to Baldpate" at the Coburn Grand Opera house.

Cynic's house. The last window on the east side of the building as you enter from the front will be unlatched. You are to raise the window and drop the second letter into a brass jardiniere which will be standing there. Then you are to return to the Philosopher and receive your reward.

"The second envelope contains $10,000 in notes."

The derelict, having read these words, put the envelope in his pocket. Then he took it out again.

"Ten thousand dollars," he said, "a fortune. These two men are crazy. Why should not I keep this money? No one but they will be the wiser."

He examined the envelopes closely. So far as he could make out from feeling the envelope contained money.

"But perhaps this is all a trick," reflected the derelict. "It sure sounds like a fairy tale. If I open the envelope I'll get in wrong, and I'll have nothing but my guilty conscience for my pains, whereas if I leave it alone I'm sure to get something or other out of the Philosopher."

Thereupon he returned the envelope to his pocket. An hour later the pangs of hunger began to assail him. He passed a restaurant, and the savory odor of steaming dishes came to his nostrils. He paused again and took out the envelope. But now a new idea struck him.

"The Philosopher," he cogitated, "selected me because he believes me to be a man of honor. I, too, believe myself to be a man of honor. If I open this envelope I do not swindle the Philosopher and the Cynic alone, I swindle myself. I sell my belief in myself—my honor, if you please, for a bundle of green bills. I sell my soul to these two men for $10,000. Why should I sell out to any one?"

So the derelict returned the envelope to the breast pocket of his coat, and went to the Cynic's house, where he waited until the clock struck the hour of midnight. Then, very softly, he opened the window and dropped the note into the brass jardiniere. Then he returned to the house of the Philosopher.

The Cynic was inside the darkened room waiting. When the window opened and the envelope fell into the jardiniere he was deeply disappointed. Not only had his philosophy of life been shaken, but he had lost $1,000.

"But," said he to himself, "there's a method of remedying all that. I'll just open that envelope and remove the $10,000. Then I'll tell the Philosopher the derelict lied when he said he returned the envelope. And there's no way in the world of proving the contrary."

Snatching the action to the word, the Cynic ripped away the end of the envelope and inserted his thumb and forefinger. He brought forth a fat bundle of paper. And inside the paper was a note signed by the Philosopher announcing: "I win."

"The Devil Fox of the North."

This story, which is convincingly told, centers around a superstition that the shooting of the Canadian black fox brings bad luck. A prima donna, weary of adulation and exhausted by a hard season, goes into northern Canada to rest. There she meets, among others, Arsene, a French-Canadian trapper. He falls in love with her and brings her, instead of flowers and bonbons, furs. She spurns his furs and demands the skin of the "devil fox," of the beauty of which she has heard.

Arsene, after many hardships, kills the black fox. He sends word to the singer and demands, as his price for the skin, that she meet him alone in his cabin and there sing a song for him.

The message, entrusted to an Indian girl, falls into the hands of a frontier desperado. He gives the note back to the messenger who delivers it. Then he steals the precious skin and hurries to Arsene's cabin, for he is confident that Arsene, having lost the fur, will not attempt to keep his trust.

Meanwhile the frontier gossips—they appear to exist on the frontier as well as elsewhere—suspect the singer of being in love with Arsene and follow her. Arsene sees them coming and hides her, but in a fight between him and the desperado which follows the desperado shoots an Indian girl and the singer rushes from her hiding place and discloses herself.

This episode leaves her under a cloud. After a meeting with Arsene, in which she tells him his love is hopeless, she starts for civilization.

Frisco Extends a Rousing Welcome

Pastor Russell's "Movies" Running From Coast to Coast.

CHURCH TO BE EXALTED SOON

Great Feast Then For Famished World—Mankind Starving For Message Which His "Movies" Supply. Reign of Sin and Death Nearing Conclusion—Kingdom of God Soon to Be Established—Introduced by "A Time of Trouble"—Overruled to Constitute a Channel of Blessing—Famished Hearts Crying For Love and Sympathy—They Shall Be Satisfied.

San Francisco, March 1.—PASTOR RUSSELL'S PHOTO-DRAMA OF CREATION was introduced here today in the Valencia Theatre before crowds. The debut of these films here approaches a completion of a chain of Pastor Russell's Photo-Drama from Coast to Coast—Boston, New York, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and St. Louis—Chicago and other places soon.

The Valencia, which is one of the finest theatres in the West, will be what might be called for the present, the home of the PHOTO-DRAMA on the Coast. The DRAMA will be produced daily, both afternoon and evening. Parts I. and II. were run today; parts III. and IV. next, and so on.

The elite of the city were well represented. Reserved seats (which, by the way, are free to all these exhibitions, and no collections) were soon exhausted.

It is unquestionably true that Pastor Russell has brought to the Coast the finest collection of motion-pictures and slides ever shown here, and a long run will follow. About 15,000 people now attend the PHOTO-DRAMA OF CREATION daily. The Gospel is being preached in a most enticing manner; a long-felt want is being supplied.

In his syndicated sermon in the forenoon Pastor Russell's subject was quite appropriate—"A Great Feast for a Famished World." It is believed that his audience agreed. His text was:

"And in this Mountain shall the Lord of Hosts make unto all people a feast of fat things." (Isaiah 25:6.) He said:

Throughout the prophetic Scriptures the word Mountain is used as the symbol of a kingdom. Earthly governments are represented as mountains and hills, while the Lord's Government is represented as being established "in the top of the mountains." It is this Mountain, or Kingdom of God, which is referred to in our text. It has not yet been established in the earth, and hence its blessed work has not yet been realized. We still properly pray, "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth, as it is done in Heaven."

True, a beginning has been made. For more than eighteen centuries since our Lord's ascension and the bestowment of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, the Church has been in process of selection, and the Church is sometimes styled the Kingdom, because its members when glorified will constitute the Kingdom class—the Bride—who will share with the Heavenly Bridegroom the Kingdom honors and services for the world.

It is true, also, that our Lord is exalted a Prince and a Savior; and that shortly, at His Second Advent, He is to take to Himself His great power and reign as King of kings and Lord of lords. But He has not yet done this. He declared at His resurrection, "All power in Heaven and in earth is given unto Me." Yet He also in His last Message to the Church distinctly pointed out that the time for taking possession of His Kingdom was future; and that the time will surely come when He will take unto Himself His great power and reign, because the time to reign will then have come.—Revelation 11:17.

More than this, the signs of the times, read in the light of the Lamp of Truth, the Word of God, seem clearly to indicate that the time is near at hand for the setting up of Christ's Kingdom. How glad we all should be! What rejoicing it should cause to the whole world of mankind, to know that the reign of Sin and Death is nearing its conclusion; that Satan, the Prince of this world, will shortly be bound for a thousand years, that he shall deceive the nations no more until its termination! How we should rejoice that "the night is far spent and the day is at hand"; that the Millennial Morning is already dawning; that the Sun of Righteousness is already rising; and that soon the whole earth will "be full of the knowledge of the glory of God, as the waters cover the great deep."—Habakkuk 2:14.

A Feast in This Mountain.
The bare announcement of the Kingdom of God would strike mankind variously in proportion as the character of the Kingdom and its work might be understood or misunderstood. Thus today to many the mention that the Kingdom of God is nigh at hand would carry the thought of "a wreck of matter and a crash of worlds." Not only our Second Advent friends believe, but the creeds of practically all denominations of Christians recite, that our Lord's Second Advent and the establishment of His Kingdom will signify to mankind the end of probation, the end of hope, and usher in to all except the elect few a great burning day.

Far too long we have allowed these traditions of men to becloud our judgment, to come between our hearts and the great blessings set forth in God's Word, and now due to the Church and to the world. It is very proper that those who are living in alienation from God, in wilful sin, should realize that the establishment of His Kingdom will mean a Reign of Righteousness which will be strictly opposed to their pernicious ways—opposed to every form of immorality, opposed to every form of injustice and iniquity, opposed to every form of trickery, sham, and false pretense. But surely Christians who are seeking to live in harmony with the Divine Law of Love, for God, for the neighbor, for the brother, for enemies, have every reason to look forward to, to long for, to hope for the coming of the Lord's Kingdom as the most desirable thing to be imagined. Indeed, it is thus described in Bible language: "The desire of all nations shall come."—Haggai 2:7.

However much the few favored by present conditions may be pleased to have things remain as they are, the masses of mankind, if they were but converted from ignorance and superstition, and brought to a knowledge of the Truth as God's Word presents it, would be glad and rejoice in the salvation which is to come to the world through God's Kingdom. The god of this world hath blinded the eyes of understanding of mankind and put darkness for light, and under the terrors of the world's "doom's day" has obscured the glorious blessings which belong to the Day of the establishment of the Kingdom of the Lord.—2 Corinthians 4:4.

True, the Kingdom of the Heavens will be introduced, the Scriptures tell us, by "A Time of Trouble such as never was" before and never will be after ward; "A Time of Trouble which will involve all nations, and peoples, and kindreds, and tongues, and every part of the world; a Time of Trouble from which there will be no escape except for those who have made the Lord, even the Most High, their Refuge and Habitation (Psalm 91:9). But then, even that plowshare of trouble the Lord proposes shall be overruled so that it will constitute a channel of blessing to mankind, by preparing their hearts for the Message of Divine Love and Grace, centered in Christ and His redeeming work at Calvary.

What Say the Scriptures?
Turning from the ignorance, superstition, darkness and terrors of the Dark Ages, let us look still further into the inspired Word of God through the Apostles and Prophets. From these let us hear some description of the blessings which God purposes His Kingdom shall bring to our sin-cursed race. The Scriptures tell us that God has prepared a great feast for humanity; they intimate figuratively that mankind has been starving for the Message of Divine Grace—that billions of our race have gone down in ignorance and superstition, famished for lack of the Word of God.

The Bread which came down from Heaven—the Message of Truth and Grace which our dear Redeemer brought and exemplified—has indeed been supplied lavishly to some. Some of us have feasted upon the good things of our Father's Word and Plan. But the great mass of mankind have been so deaf and so blind that they see not, neither do they understand nor receive the grace of God, under present conditions. How glad we are that "all the blind eyes shall be opened, and all the deaf ears shall be unstopped" (Isaiah 35:5), and that the whole world will thus be prepared for the true knowledge of God, whose goodness and loving kindness and tender mercies will undoubtedly have a softening and mellowing effect upon hard hearts!

Blessed the Hungry.
There are many hungry hearts in the world. Many whose bodies are well nourished have famished hearts, which cry out for love and sympathy. He who reads the hearts, who knows what is in them, has prepared this feast which will surely satisfy every legitimate, righteous desire. Those who already are the Lord's people, and who have already feasted at the bountiful table spread for the Church, can approximate to some extent the bounty that will be spread before the world in this great feast foretold through the Prophet in our text. There will be several differences, however, between our present feast and that for the world.

The present feast is merely a feast of promises which must be partaken of by the exercise of faith. The feast described in our text will be a very actual one. The realities of the blessing of Restitution—of health, of strength, mental, moral, and physical—will there be bountifully supplied, to be partaken of freely by all who appreciate them.

Again, the present feast is a spiritual one, relating to a Heavenly Kingdom glory and honor—things not seen as yet, except by the eye of faith. To the contrary, the feast for the world, referred to in our text, will consist of earthly bounties and blessings, most tangible in kind as well as excellent in quality. All that was lost in Adam will be tendered to such as will accept the mercy.

The Prophet in attempting to describe the bounties of that feast uses highly symbolical terms, and describes it as a "feast of fat things, full of marrow, of wines on the lees, well refined." Assuredly no language that we could use could fully and properly set forth the riches of God's grace provided for the world of mankind under the ministration of His Kingdom. The earth shall yield her increase, streams shall break forth in the deserts, the wilderness shall blossom as the rose, the solitary place be made glad.—Isaiah 35.

The Destructive Work.
The Lord, after describing through the Prophet the feast of blessings and refreshments, portrays the destruction of things injurious to mankind, saying, "And He will destroy in this Mountain the face of the covering cast over all people—the veil that is spread over all nations." (Verse 7.) This veil is none other than the veil of ignorance and superstition which hinders mankind from seeing that the Creator is their Friend, that righteousness and truth are to their advantage, that the ways of the Lord are righteous altogether.

The sunlight of the New Dispensation, the Reign of Righteousness, will scatter the clouds and darkness, the veil of ignorance, and let into the hearts of mankind "the light of the knowledge of the glory of God," as it shines "in the face of Jesus Christ" our Lord. What a wonderful change! And how glad mankind will be, not only to have that feast prepared, but also to be rid of the darkness which would hinder them from appreciating it.

Still More to Follow.
The Prophet proceeds to describe further, saying, "He will swallow up death in victory." For several thousand years Death has had the victory and the human family have been swallowed up by it. The Scriptures designate the six thousand years of earth's history as the reign of Sin and Death.

It is conservatively estimated that Death has swallowed up twenty thousand millions of humanity, and that ninety thousand are going to the tomb every day.

The Lord tells us through the Prophet that with the establishment of His Kingdom will come a wonderful change; instead of Death continuing to swallow up the race, dying shall cease. None shall die then except for wilful sin. How glorious a time that will be! All of our sorrows are more or less intimately associated with the reign of Sin and Death. How we may well rejoice in the New Dispensation which Divine Wisdom has planned, and which Divine Love will execute, for the release of our race from the dying process, permitting them to return to the liberty of the sons of God—freedom from death, freedom from sin!

But even this is not enough! The Lord purposes not merely to restrain the power of death, so that it shall cease swallowing up our race, but additionally to "swallow up Death in victory." The tomb, which figuratively has engorged itself with twenty thousand millions, will be forced to disgorge, to release its victims. "All that are in the graves shall hear the voice of the Son of God and shall come forth." The saints few, whose faithfulness God has already tested, will come forth to the perfection of life. The unsaintly masses, the majority of whom have never known God truly, will come forth to a resurrection, by trial, by judgment, by discipline. Death itself shall be destroyed.

St. Paul quotes from the Prophet Hosea, saying, "O Death, where is thy victory? O Grave, where is thy glory?" He does not quote this as applicable now; for Sin and Death still have their victory in the world. Millions are still slaves of Sin, and billions are still bound by the power of the tomb. St. Paul and the Prophet still point down to the glorious Millennial Kingdom (following the resurrection change of the Church), when all shall be brought to a knowledge of the Truth, and when all that are in the prison-house of Death shall come forth, because Jesus has redeemed every member of our race from the power of the tomb.

"Wipe All Tears Away."
We remember our Redeemer's tender words, "Come unto Me, all ye who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." (Matthew 11:28.) Those who have accepted His gracious invitation, and obtained from Him the rest of faith, have found that it has meant the cancellation of their troubles in a large degree. We, then, should be able to understand the next statement, in our context, "The Lord God will wipe away the tears from off all faces." It is the same Message given in Revelation, where the same Kingdom, under the figure of the New Jerusalem, is brought to our attention. The Heavenly Father will wipe away the tears, not directly, but indirectly, through His Son, our Redeemer. Tears are the marks of sorrow, pain, suffering; and the poetic statement that God Himself will wipe away the tears of mankind is a beautiful and forceful suggestion of how the Power of the Highest is shortly to be employed, not in the eternal torment of the world, but in its blessing, its uplifting, and the removal of its sorrows.

When we remember that there are no tears in Heaven, and that the joys of that blessed state are because of its sinlessness, our hearts overflow with thanksgiving as we catch, in the poetic thought, the assurance that all sin, and all sorrow as the result of sin, and all tears and marks of sorrow, will forever pass away in that happy time.

Let no one imagine that this signifies universal salvation. Other Scriptures show us that universal opportunity for salvation will be accorded, but that none except those who avail themselves of this opportunity by a hearty acceptance of the Divine arrangement, and a hearty obedience to the laws of the Kingdom, will get the great blessing of life everlasting. All others, wilful sinners, will be destroyed in the Second Death.

RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

It's Me For Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets, while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bed time.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O. All druggists.

MUCH ACTIVITY IN BRANCHES OF STEEL INDUSTRY

The pessimist who could see nothing but disaster under the administration of President Wilson, and predicted in terms of exaggerated self-assurance that the new tariff law would be the death blow to every big commercial interest, seems to have been neither a good prophet nor even one who has made a study of conditions as they have been or are at present.

One line of industry alone and several closely allied to it, were picked out for sudden and fatal contraction because of the removal of a huge protective tariff, the iron, steel and railroad business.

Now without argument we present some facts, taken from the news columns of the Railway Age Gazette, a journal whose conservatism, and reliability is unchallengeable.

These show that instead of stagnation there is a desired impetus toward a year of unexampled activity.

The Illinois Central has ordered 17,500 tons of rails from the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company.

The Chicago Surface Lines have ordered 20,000 tons of rails from the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company.

The Cuba Railroad has ordered 2 superheated ten-wheel passenger and 6 ten-wheel freight locomotives from the American Locomotive Company.

The Western Maryland is in the market for 20 consolidation type locomotives.

The Chicago & Eastern Illinois is in the market for mikado and Pacific type locomotives.

The Central of Brazil is in the market for 23 Pacific type and 30 Mallet type locomotives.

The St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico is in the market for 16 or 18 consolidation type locomotives.

The Pekin Kalgan has ordered 2 consolidation type locomotives from the American Locomotive Company.

The Conway Lumber Company, Conway, S. C., has ordered one prairie type locomotive from the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

The John L. Roper Lumber Company, Norfolk, Va., has ordered one prairie type locomotive from the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

The Dill-Cramer-Truitt Corporation, Suffolk, Va., has ordered one prairie type locomotive from the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

The Chesapeake & Ohio has ordered 6 Pacific type and 6 mikado type locomotives from the American Locomotive Company. The latter are to be used by the Hocking Valley.

The Leigh Valley Coal Company, New York, has ordered one six-wheel saddle-tank switching locomotive from the Davenport Locomotive Works for use at the company's colliery at Lost Creek, Pa.

The government of the commonwealth of Australia has recently placed an order for four locomotives for the Transcontinental Railway, now under construction, with the Baldwin Locomotive Works. Such action caused serious debate in the Federal Parliament. The Assistant Minister of Home Affairs has therefore issued the following statement: Every manufacturer of engines in Australia, he approached, to ascertain if they could be supplied in Australia.

He then decided to invite quotations for quick supply from overseas firms. The Baldwin Company of America, made the most satisfactory offer. Representatives of Baldwin from the United States in 15 weeks British and Scottish firms wanted 11 or 12 months.

VANATTA.

Little Catherine Sensenbaur of St. Louisville is spending a few days with her grandfather, Mr. J. F. Lock. Short funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Greenwalt over the remains of Grandma Buxton last Saturday morning at the home after which the cortege journeyed to Homer where services were held and burial made. The passing of a noble and Christian lady such as she leaves a sadness in the hearts of her neighbors as well as relatives.

Protracted meeting is in progress here, after a postponement of one week, because of weather conditions. If the meetings at the church here come to a close before Wednesday evening, March 4, Wyoming Valley Grange, No. 1063 will give the first and second degree work to a class of about thirty-two candidates. A bountiful oyster feast was given last week for the class that was given the third and fourth degrees, and also the patrons of the Grange. It is needless to state the supper was enjoyed by all.

With the thermometer registering 18 and 20 degrees below zero here, and snow drifts higher than fences, the farmers last week were busy in procuring fuel for fires, and caring for the stock.

Mr. C. E. Reichenbaugh is canvassing this territory with a Gospel work book, for which he is receiving many orders.

Every one who has entered in the Advocate Booklovers' contest here is cherishing a secret desire to win that sparkling $15 or even the last prize on the list of many desirable ones.

New Treatment for Hay Fever, Asthma, Catarrh and Head Colds

Vick's Vap-O-Rub Croup and Pneumonia Salve Relieves by Inhalation and Absorption. No Dosing.

When Vick's "Vap-O-Rub" Croup and Pneumonia Salve is applied externally, the body warmth releases vapors of Pine Tar, Camphor, Thymol, Menthol, and Eucalyptol. These vapors are inhaled directly to the lungs and air passages where internal medicines cannot go. They loosen the phlegm, open the air passages and stimulate the mucous membrane to throw off the disease germs. For catarrh and head colds melt a little in a spoon and inhale the vapors, also apply well up the nostrils. For asthma and hay fever follow the instructions given above and also rub Vick's well over the spinal column, thus relaxing the nervous tension. Vick's is not a "cure" for these diseases, but it has at least the merit of containing no harmful habit forming drugs, and it is sold by all druggists on thirty days trial. If it fails to relieve in your case the purchase price will be immediately refunded.

For sore throat, tonsillitis, deep colds, and bronchial troubles, apply hot wet towels over the chest and throat to open the pores of the skin. Then rub Vick's well in and cover with a warm flannel cloth. The next morning the phlegm is loosened, head is clear and in addition the absorption of Vick's through the skin has taken out that tightness and soreness. At all dealers—25c, 50c, and $1.00.
